Where Can I View the Barber Rotation, and Can I Display It on a TV?

Walk-In Manager · https://haircutnow.com/docs/where-can-i-view-the-barber-rotation-and-can-i-display-it-on-a-tv/

Owners, managers, and barbers can view the live barber rotation on their own devices. If your team wants a larger display, a computer connected to a TV can show the normal Walk-In Manager dashboard.

The barber rotation and the customer waiting list are different views. The rotation shows the team's order and availability. The waiting list shows customers waiting to be served.

Where owners and managers see the rotation

Sign in to Haircut Now Shops with your own account and open Walk-Ins → Business dashboard. Find the Walk-In Rotation section.

The dashboard shows eligible Ready team members in order and other checked-in team members with their statuses. If service routing is enabled, choose a service to see its eligible rotation.

Owners and managers with Walk-In Manager management permission can use this dashboard. Management access does not require joining the daily barber rotation.

Where barbers see the rotation

Team members open Walk-Ins → My rotation and look for Shop rotation. They can see the checked-in team, availability, and eligible Ready order from their own phones.

Barbers still need to check in at the shop for their shift to receive walk-in offers. Viewing the rotation is separate from joining it.

What customers see

The tablet kiosk displays the customer waiting list, including waiting customers and their queue positions. It does not display the internal barber rotation.

Customers who check in through a QR sign see their own confirmation and status on their phones, rather than the full public waiting list. See the kiosk guide for the shared customer display.

Showing the barber rotation on a TV with a computer

You can use a Windows mini PC or another suitable computer connected to a TV by HDMI. The TV acts as the computer's monitor.

1. Connect the computer to the TV and select the corresponding TV input.
2. On the computer, open Haircut Now Shops in a web browser and sign in with an authorized owner or manager account.
3. Open Walk-Ins → Business dashboard.
4. Display the Walk-In Rotation section and select a service if your shop uses service routing.
5. Keep the computer awake, connected to the internet, signed in, and displaying the dashboard.

The visible dashboard receives live updates and refreshes automatically. If updates stop, check the computer's connection and sign-in, then refresh the page.

This setup displays the full management dashboard, including management controls and customer information. There is currently no separate read-only TV display mode. Position and operate the signed-in computer for authorized staff use.

Does my phone or a kiosk tablet need to stay connected?

No. A signed-in computer running the dashboard updates independently. Your phone does not need to stay connected or remain at the shop for that display to work.

The display still needs customer check-ins to generate walk-in activity. Keep your chosen kiosk or QR check-in method available. A shop using QR customer check-in can operate without a dedicated kiosk tablet.

See why customer check-ins are needed for automatic rotation.

How is screen mirroring different?

Screen mirroring copies what another device is showing. That source device must remain connected and display the relevant screen.

Mirroring the kiosk shows its customer check-in and waiting-list view. Mirroring a signed-in manager dashboard shows the management view. The computer-and-HDMI setup above runs the dashboard directly on the computer.

These instructions describe using a TV as a computer display. They do not depend on a particular TV brand or a TV’s built-in browser.
